

A SLAVE SALE

Republican Banner (1837-1875); May 15, 1857;

ProQuest Historical Newspapers: The Nashville Tennessean

pg. 2

A SLAVE SALE.— The New York Correspondents of the Washington Union gives the following "sell."

He says:

A famous abolition preacher in our midst met with the following incident the other day: He was told that a most beautiful slave had been purchased the other day by a "southern gentleman" and carried to the sunny South. The slave was represented to be an exquisite creature, white almost as any woman, with limbs delicately moulded, and rounded in a manner that would throw a sculptor into ecstasies: her whole appearance was fascinating in a high degree; and it was told the reverend gentleman that this beautiful creature, with a form so delicate that she would adorn any parlor in the land, was put up at auction, knocked down to the price of $9,000, with chains on her hands and wrists.

The preacher took fire at the suggestion; his whole soul was filled with indignation; he ascended his pulpit; he made an appeal to his people on the atrocious nature of the slave traffic, and intimated pretty broadly for what purpose so beautiful a girl was purchased at such an enormous price. It was intimated that the preacher felt somewhat disconcerted when he learned that the pretty creature was the marble Greek Slave, so famous on both sides of the Atlantic. Many people considered that both the preacher and the slave were sold.